

Stephanie Sandy

What am I grateful for in 2021 is my recovery after surgery January 10, 2021. I reflected this year in the gratitude of everything in life that I lived through. My family my children grandchildren and great grandchildren I cherish. My work that I have been able to work these many years and watch families grow, community grow. I now work with them the children who are now adults and parents. They were in my programs through the years. I have been blessed so many ways. I give thanks to my family members who have passed and were with me in my surgery but afterwards watching over me. That is what I am grateful for in 2021.

In health and healing.